Vinh Chung, M.D.

*Board Certified Dermatologist
Fellowship Trained Mohs Surgeon*

Dr. Chung graduated Harvard College magna cum laude with a B.A. in Biology. He then earned a Master of Theology in Christian Doctrine at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. Dr. Chung attended Harvard Medical School for his M.D. Amidst his medical studies, Dr. Chung attended the University of Sydney in Australia as a Fulbright Scholar and completed a Master of Pharmaceutical Sciences. Dr. Chung did his medical internship at Caritas Carney Hospital in Dorchester, an inner city, immigrant community where he had volunteered extensively for many years. He completed his dermatology residency at Emory University, where he served as Chief Resident. Dr. Chung is fellowship trained in Mohs Micrographic Surgery, the most advanced treatment for most skin cancers. In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Chung has published numerous studies in leading medical journals. He has presented at national medical meetings including the American College of Mohs Surgery, American Academy of Dermatology, and American Society of Dermatologic Surgery. He received the prestigious Theodore Tromovitch Award, bestowed annually to only one Mohs Fellow in the country. Dr. Chung is married to Leisle, whom he met in high school, and they have two sons and a daughter.

Frank Samarin, M.D.

Board Certified Dermatologist

Dr. Samarin graduated magna cum laude from Westminster College. The U.S. Air Force awarded him a scholarship to attend medical school at MCP-Hahnemann School of Medicine in Philadelphia. He was a flight surgeon at Moody Air Force Base in Georgia, and deployed numerous times to Turkey, Afghanistan, Uzbekistan and Iraq for combat search and rescue operations. Dr. Samarin became medical director of the Air Force's largest pararescue jumper (PJ) squadron, working with the PJs and overseeing their medical training. Dr. Samarin flew numerous sorties and participated in many rescue missions, stateside and abroad, including Hurricane Katrina. Dr. Samarin completed his dermatology residency at Yale University, where he also served as Chief Resident. He was then stationed at the U.S. Air Force Academy as the Chief of Dermatology. During his time at the Academy, he has traveled to Haiti on medical humanitarian missions and has an interest in international medicine. Dr. Samarin enjoys basketball, golf, hiking, skiing, and spending time with his family. He met his wife, Amy, in college, and they now have a daughter and son.
